

ABOUT E.D.I.

The Carl Holmes Executive Development Institute (EDI) was born out of an effort to address the lack of African Americans in the fire service industry and unequal opportunities African Americans have encountered in receiving cutting edge management and leadership training. The concept proposal by former Assistant Fire Chief Carl Holmes of Oklahoma City Fire Department was to have quality African American instructors deliver course material in their area of expertise or current area of management.

In May 1991, the pilot institute training program was held at Florida A & M University in Tallahassee, Florida with 45 students. EDI moved to Dillard University in 1996.
